SEQUENCE CONTROLLER AND CONTROL METHOD

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A programmable logic controller having a data holding unit for storing operation data for instructing operations and condition data for the operations in accordance with a predetermined sequence, having a variable control unit for generating operation instruction signals from the operation data in accordance with a predetermined sequence, and controlling a system for successive operation when conditions defined by the condition data and conditions input from sensors of the control system match.